

Investigative measures - quiz

Q1. In the EPPO investigations, the investigative measures are requested:

- a)* only by the EDP leading the case and in exceptional cases the EP
- b)* only by the EP after the authorisation of the permanent Chamber
- c)* only by the EDP leading the case, but always on instruction by the EP

Q2. The investigative measures available to the EPPO:

- a)* are only those mentioned in the EPPO regulation
- b)* are those available under the national law of the EDP leading the investigation
- c)* are those provided in the regulation, with the application of the national law for what is not governed in the regulation

Q3. The EPPO investigative measures:

- a)* can be requested with regard to the offences that are within the mandate of the EPPO, at least where they are punishable by a maximum penalty of at least 4 years of imprisonment
- b)* can be requested with no limit for any criminal offence falling into the EPPO competence
- c)* can be requested with regard to the offences that are within the mandate of the EPPO, at least where they are punishable by a maximum penalty of at least 3 years of imprisonment, if the national law of the EDP leading the case so provides

Q4. When the leading EDP carries out a search:

- a)* it does not include conservatory measure to preserve the integrity of evidence, that must be specifically requested at the Permanent Chamber through the EP
- b)* it includes any conservatory measure to preserve the integrity of evidence
- c)* it includes any conservatory measure to preserve the integrity of evidence, only if such measure is immediately available

Q5. The use of the interception methodology called “Trojan horse”:

- a)* is available for the EPPO when provided for in the national legislation, even though it is not mentioned in the EPPO regulation, under the general conditions for the investigative measures set out in the latter
- b)* is not available for the EPPO as it is not mentioned in the EPPO regulation

c) is available for the EPPO under the conditions of the national law